

people that lose their...

SENATOR HABERMAN: How many is that?

SENATOR HOAGLAND: Well, there are thousands that have lost their licenses, Senator Haberman. Thousands, under that bill.

SENATOR HABERMAN: All right, thank you very much. Thank you. Three percent of a thousand is 30. Yah, I figured that out in my head. So what we're doing...well, with 10 percent would be a hundred, so 3 percent would be 30, for 30 people, in essence, we're destroying the DWI bill. And I think maybe Senator Chambers has a point. Maybe he's got a point. Well, let's let them all drive if that's the way they want to do it. Let's just go ahead and completely destroy it because that's what you're doing. Senator Hoagland said that this is a carefully balanced bill. Wasn't that beautiful? This is a carefully compromised bill to get votes. That's why they took taxicab drivers out and why they took truckers out, to get votes for the bill. So evidently carefully balanced in the eyes of some beholders, but in the eyes of this beholder, is to get votes for the bill. That's what it is. So what we're doing, it's for 30 people and those 30 people should have known better. We don't have any records. Okay, let's go a step further. How are they going to know that he only has a license to drive back and forth? Who is going to know this? He's got a license. And I also have another amendment up there, I might as well tell you. They say that they have an additional 90 days added on to it if they're caught. I'm going to make it six months or a year. Let's put some teeth in this if you're going to start weakening it, let's go around the other way and make it stronger. But I say, maybe Senator Chambers has a point. If we're going to open it up, let's open it up and go all the way. Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: Senator Nichol, do you wish to speak on the Chambers amendment?

SPEAKER NICHOL: Yes, sir. Thank you, Mr. President. Members of the Legislature, I oppose the Chambers amendment. Senator Hoagland, this does my heart good to see you cringe a little bit. You want to open it up with your crack, but you don't want Senator Chambers to have his crack open, so I
